

How I Found My Inner Child at Razor Sports

Could there be anything better than laughing out loud and enjoying an activity in a fun, interactive environment with no worries? I recently took my family to Razor Sports to experience a drifting Crazy Cart session and here are the reasons why you should too:

The Experience

Their location is at Ka Makana Ali'i Center on the Macy's wing, between Macy's and Hawaii's Finest Mall. The minute we knew we had found this local gem, the staff greeted us warmly and fitted us with safety gear that included face socks and helmets. The place was buzzing with excitement and happy faces. We could barely hold on to our anticipation and have our Crazy Cart adventure. Shift Carts are recommended for ages three to five years, and the youngest drivers allowed on Crazy Carts are six years old. Don't worry though, adults can ride on the Crazy Carts too!

The Scene

There was a cheerful, celebratory vibe the minute we stepped further inside. Every wall was adorned with a vibrant hand painted mural, and the pleasant cool temperature of the room prepared us for our Crazy Cart session. The staff delivered a short and clear safety talk and set each of us up on our very own Crazy Cart. They made sure to let us know that racing is not allowed in the facility. All participants must fill out a safety waiver prior to their drift session. The carts were simple to operate and took off with a gradual speed that was neither too slow nor too fast. There were three parts: gas pedal, lever, and steering wheel. I felt like a pro after two laps and I have never ridden a Go Cart in my life. The Crazy Carts run around 12 miles per hour and the experience fell somewhere between playful fun and exhilaration. There was a zero learning curve required because of the cart’s ease-of-use. What could be better than that? The bright yellow course was a cascading continuation of weaving turns. We were immediately mesmerized while drifting the carts around each zig-zagging corner. The entire experience was the perfect mix of speed and technicality that required just the right amount of focus. Each drift session lasted around 12-15 minutes. There was an exhilarating sense of freedom while moving around the track.

The People

The staff were kind and attentive. Our host was visibly available and quickly rescued us when we would find ourselves stuck. Razor Sports gets a thumbs up for great roadside assistance.

The Aftereffects

The whole experience left the kids (and parents) smiling from ear to ear. Go karting is a great outlet for kids and, judging by the way we felt, a therapeutic way for the whole family to let off some steam. “When we join children in their world of play, we unlock the door to their inner lives and meet them heart to heart.” ~Lawrence Cohen
